"My Heart is Calling"

Mr. Aberhart now proposes to operate an opposition press. Here's hoping he has the real cash to sink in it. There never was a paper yet that existed entirely upon nourishment from the point of a fountain pen.

The heroic efforts of Arnold Link to save a woman from drowning here on Sunday evening last should be noted. The woman attempted to cross a narrow footbridge over the river and fell off into the swift water. Arnold happened to notice the accident, rushed in and with great difficulty brought her to shore. Unable to carry her further, he ran to the nearest telephone to call the police, and assistance. Returning to the scene of the accident the woman was again in the water, having it is believed, fainted in an effort to stand up, falling back into the chilly waters. She was again rescued and conveyed to a nearby house, where she was looked after till recovery, when she was returned to her home.

EVANS-FISHER

The marriage of Idris, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Evans, to Miss Edna May Fisher, daughter of Mr. Walter Fisher, took place in Calgary on Friday, December 27th. Mr. and Mrs. Evans have taken up residence in West Blaimore.

CAN ALBERTA DO IT?

The Government of Alberta has allowed it to be understood that it will during the next session of the legislature bring in legislation providing for the licensing of all retail traders and the establishment of maximum and minimum prices for a large proportion if not all of the goods which they sell.

It is characteristic of the present type of radical legislation that he pays no attention to the constitutional or economic limitations of the legislative power conferred upon him by the electors. There is not the slightest reason to suppose that the powers of the provincial legislatures for the regulation of business include the power to fix prices. The licensing power granted by the British North America Act is expressly limited by the qualification that it is for the purpose of raising revenue for the province and the act of attaching to the license a condition which might easily have the effect of preventing the licensee from doing any business at all except at a loss is not likely to be regarded as constitutional by any court in the Dominion.—Toronto Saturday Night.

Two weddings were solemnized at Michel during Christmas week. Annie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Deluca, of Michel, became the bride of Alex. Walker, of Lethbridge; and Emily, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Firth, of Michel, became the bride of William Beard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Beard, of Natal. The young couples have taken up residence in Michel and Natal, respectively.

CARD OF THANKS

December 21st issue of the Alberta Gazette contained a proclamation signed by the Hon. William L. E. Walsh, lieutenant-governor, and E. C. Manning, provincial secretary, declaring December 26th (Boxing Day) as a holiday throughout the Province. Note—the day was observed six days before that proclamation appeared.

The Halifax Chronicle celebrated its 112th birthday on Sunday, December 29th. On December 29, 1824, "The Nova Scotian" was first printed, with Joe Howe its editor and publisher. The name was changed to "The Morning Chronicle" in 1844. Joe Howe was one of Nova Scotia's greatest statesmen, and obtained the first responsible government in Canada for his province in 1848.

BLAIRMORE MOTORS

STAGE AMATEUR CONTEST

Success marked Blaimore's first opportunity to practice going on the air, when the amateur contests staged here by the Blaimore Motors on Monday drew audiences estimated at close to 1500 from all parts of the district.

The arrangements were in charge of Mr. Pat Hamilton, of Lethbridge, while Mr. Gibson, of Blaimore Motors, was master of ceremonies.

The afternoon programme opened at 3 o'clock, with an able address by the proprietor, Mr. Charles Sartoris, popularly known as "Poor Charlie." Charlie was given a rousing ovation.

The purpose of the programme was fully explained by Mr. Hamilton, who expressed best wishes to Mr. Sartoris in his great enterprise.

The programme lasted till around 11 p.m., with a brief intermission allowed for supper. Following the judge awards, dancing was entered into for several hours to music supplied by the Arcadians.

The garage, one of the most imposing and conspicuous outside the cities in Alberta, is not quite ready for business, also it was hoped Monday's events would couple with the official opening.

The programme brought out a wonderful display of talent, some of which will undoubtedly be on the air in the very near future.

Other towns taking part in similar programmes which are sponsored by the Imperial Motors Ltd., of Lethbridge, are Milk River, Pincher Creek, Taber and Cardston. Five competitors will appear in Lethbridge on each of four or five week nights, four from each five to be eliminated. When one elimination round is completed, another five will appear from each town, leaving 12 amateurs in the competition. Final prize winners will be decided at a special public concert to be staged in Lethbridge.

Following is a list of winners here, who will compete in the Lethbridge eliminations:

J. Pietraszko, Coleman, violin; George Kerr, Blaimore, violin; R. Edl, Frank, clarinet; E. Brown, Coleman, vocal; Coleman Boys' Orchestra; F. Hozak, Bellevue; violin; E. Burelli, M. Yakubich, piano-accompanist; Mrs. Altmatt, Blaimore, piano; V. Wheatcroft, Blaimore, vocal; A. McClenahan, Coleman, vocal; Pire and V. Rae, Blaimore, tap dance and song; R. Edl, Hillebrand—L. Belopotosky, L. Robach, Passburg; Miss Campo, second; L. Morgan, third.

MORTON-PHILLIPS

A quiet house wedding was solemnized at Calgary on Thursday, when Katherine Helen, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Phillips, became the bride of Mr. Wellesley Hugh Morton, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Morton. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents, with Rev. Thomas A. Roger reading the marriage lines. Mrs. Muriel Walker played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose an attractive gown of royal blue velvet made on long simple lines and over which wore a jacket with small stand-up collar.

She wore a matching turban with tiny nose veil and carried pink roses. Miss Phyllis Anthony was the bridesmaid and wore a silk crepe frock of powder blue with a full skirt and long tight sleeves. A matching turban and pink carnations completed her ensemble. Mr. G. Maniquet, of Blaimore, was the groomsmen.

After the ceremony about 40 guests attended the reception. Mr. and Mrs. Morton left for Blaimore, where they will reside, the bride wearing a tailored frock of blue bunny cloth with darker velvet collar, and grey fur coat.—Lethbridge Herald.

C. H. Mundie, C.P.R. pumpman at Lundbreck, is suffering from a sprained back. Harry says it was not brought about by lifting an oversized fish from the Lundbreck district waters.

A real throng of citizens gathered at the local depot on Sunday afternoon to wish success to the many young lads and lassies who were heading for city educational institutions. It is said that when the train reached Pincher, no less than sixty were reported having boarded between Fernie and that point. Our wish for success to all!

Blaimore, vocal; A. McInnis, Bellevue, banjo-vocal.

Other local prize winners included: Blaimore—Mrs. Altmatt, first; George Kerr, second; P. Gushul, third. Coleman—J. Pietraszko, first; Boys' Orchestra, second; E. Brown, third. Bellevue—A. McInnis, first; F. Hozak, second; R. Price, third. Frank—R. Edl, Hillebrand—L. Belopotosky, L. Robach, Passburg; Miss Campo, second; L. Morgan, third.

1936 Master and Standard Chevrolets Replete with New Features

New Master and Standard Chevrolets for 1936 show marked advances in appearance and in engineering. Perfected hydraulic brakes, high compression engines with full-length water jackets, and balanced carburetors are among the mechanical improvements. The solid steel Turret Top Fisher body is now used on the Standard as well as the Master Deluxe models. The illustrations show: Top right, the Master Six special sedan with built-in trunk. Top left, the front seat improvement in Master coaches, the seat being in one piece and the right half of the back being movable. Lower right, the simple arrangement of Chevrolet's perfected hydraulic brakes, all models. Lower left, a De Luxe Convertible and the Regular coupe of the Standard Series.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

A medical device for inducing artificial fevers was reported responsible for short-wave radio interference throughout North America and in some parts of Europe.

Air France, the French international flying company, announced it will open a regular weekly airmail service between France and South America this month.

James T. Howley, of St. John's, an engineering graduate of the Nova Scotia technical college at Halifax, was named 1935 Rhodes scholar for Newfoundland.

The city of Quetta, destroyed by earthquake last May, will be rebuilt on the same site as far as possible. The Indian government announced the cost is estimated at $300,000. Official notification was mailed to all municipalities in Ontario advising that the provincial government will tax incomes from and after Jan. 1. The letter is signed by Welfare Minister Croll.

President Roosevelt announced he was calling a North America wild life conference to meet in Washington, February 3 to 7 to work out a program for conservation of wild life resources.

Permission for Leon Trotsky, exiled Bolshevik leader, to reside in Norway has been extended until June 18, 1935, in addition to six months to the original visa granted him upon his departure from France last summer.

Henry Pidgeon of Los Angeles, 60-year-old "hermit of the sea," reached Durban Bay, Dec. 25, after a 100-day voyage sailing alone half way around the world. He left Los Angeles in August, 1934, heading across the Pacific.

The executive committee of the National Miners Union of Scotland, representing $7,000,000, approved the recent decision by the Miners' Federation of Great Britain calling for a nation-wide strike unless demands for a wage increase are granted.

New Palestine Council

Government Issues Statement Giving Commissioner Wide Powers

The government at Jerusalem issued an official communique proclaiming the establishment of a legislative council, and entrusting Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope, high commissioner for Palestine, with wide veto powers over the new assembly.

The communique stated that if any section of the Palestinian population refuses to participate in the elections of members of the council, the high commissioner is empowered to nominate British officials or other representatives to sit on the council.

This clause was considered of unusual significance in view of the rejection by Jewish leaders of the government's proposals, and in view of a statement by Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the World Zionist organization and the Jewish Agency for Palestine, that the Jewish community would not participate in the establishment of the legislative council.

New Ship Being Tested

To Determine Whether New Metal Is Equal To Steel

The Alumette, experimental ship "Fragment" built of aluminum alloy and launched at Bath, Maine, left port on its first trip—by rail. The cross-section of a ship was consigned to the experimental division of the Aluminum Company of America at Newport News, Va. The chief purpose of tests planned there was to determine if the weight-saving metal would resist corrosion as well as steel.

The craft's sponsors believe that if the tests are successful, the use of the metal as a hull material would revolutionize shipbuilding and bring a new speed era to the sea.

Common Remembrance

Britain And Germany Agree On Maintenance Of War Graves

The agreement signed at Berlin calling for common remembrance of the war dead by the former belligerent countries in the Great War provides that the 6,500 British dead in Germany shall for all time be left to rest there.

Their graves will be maintained by British personnel in accordance with British principles. Similar arrangements are made for German graves in French and British soil.

"Johnny," said the minister, "every time I hear you swear a cold chill runs down my back."

"Gee," said Johnny, "if you had been at my house the other day when I had caught his nose in the clothes wringer, you'd have froze to death."

A Vast Building Scheme

Public Development Planned By Several English Towns

With the development of fast automobiles and paved highways and the inauguration of fast express trains between London and the coast, business men think nothing nowadays of making their homes 25 to 50 miles from the city and commuting to and from every day, making the journey in about the same time as they used to do when they lived in suburban London and took an hour to reach their offices and workshops.

Working on the Sussex coast is 60 miles from London and is the centre of a cluster of small towns on the Channel. In recent years the populations of these delightful places have grown at a tremendous rate, Worthing alone adding 3,000 a year, and within the last six months 1,000 new homes have been completed. The reason for this is that these places have been signed for the purchase of adjacent lands at a cost of $75,000, and upon these houses, all laid out according to the most modern system of town-planning, with the last word in recreational facilities.

The project will provide for 2,000 men for the next 25 years, besides giving employment to thousands of other workers in the building supply lines in other parts of the country.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Sacrificed His Job

Young Man Figured Out Applicant Needed It More

The following article by Leonard Lyons, appeared in New York Post: "Few, except the Employment Department of radio and advertising offices, know Spencer. After a three-year search for employment, Spencer finally got a job—with a Radio Publicity Service. Many had applied, but only two survived the eliminations; and of these two, Spencer was selected. The other applicant was a young man, too. He didn't know that he had lost out. 'I've been waiting two years to be married,' the other man told him. 'And if I get this job... Gee—we're gonna be a happy couple. Spencer phoned the man who would have been his new boss. 'I don't want the job,' he stated. 'Just got a better offer. Give it to the other guy.' It was a gallant gesture—especially since the lady who was engaged for three years to Spencer here had broken the truth the week before—because he couldn't find employment."

Expel Soviet Members

Joseph Stalin To Get Rid Of Ten Per Cent.

Joseph Stalin and other leaders of the Communist party of the Soviet Union have decided to expel another 10 per cent. of the party membership, it was announced at Moscow. Pravda, organ of the party, explained most of the members being expelled were formerly in the armies of the White Russians who fought the Bolsheviks in the civil war in 1920-22. Adherents of the "Nationalist" regime in central Siberia at that time, form an especially large proportion of the members affected by the expulsion order.

This new party cleansing has been under way ever since the announcement was made early this year, shortly after the assassination of Sergei Kiroff, Stalin's right-hand man, that the party would be "purified" by membership card control.

Kiroff was assassinated, not by a "White Guard," as was reported at the time, but by a young member of the Communist party. This act was followed by the execution of more than 100 men who were held on various charges in Soviet prisons. A new "party purge" then was ordered.

Seed Testing

Many Saskatchewan farmers are sending samples of their seed grain to the Dominion Seed Branch at Saskatoon for testing. Because of the large number of samples being received at the seed laboratory the results of a germination test should not be expected for at least a month after the samples have been mailed.

Origin Of Term Carat

Carat derives its name from quail, which in Arabic signifies the quail of the coral tree of Abyssinia, the seeds of which have from time immemorial been employed in jewelry in weighing because they never vary in weight when they are dry.

Water drunk immediately after the eating of candy and other dry sugars is an aid to digestion, according to recent tests.

"I can't follow my diet. If I take macaroni it will cause complications with England."

Overcoming Obstacles

Creating Nation-Wide Demand For New Product By Advertising

The English Channel was too wide for Napoleon to cross. All he could do was to stand on the French coast and look through a telescope at the white cliffs of Dover.

To cross the Channel was a three-hour journey by sailing-ship, with a good wind.

Then came the fast steamships that crossed in an hour.

To-day, the aeroplanes flash across in 10 or 12 minutes. The aeroplane pilots never speak of the "Channel." They call it the "Ditch."

So, there are many obstacles in the business world that have shrunk since efficiency became known.

It is now possible, for instance, to create a nation-wide demand for a new product in one day, through the use of advertising.—Efficiency Magazine.

German Air Route

To Inaugurate Mail Service Via Azores And Bermuda

Latest to announce plans for North Atlantic airmail and passenger service in 1936 is the German Lufthansa Company, which declared a regular service would be inaugurated via the Lisbon-Azores-Bermuda route.

Germany's bid for passenger travel will be made on the new Zeppelin LZ 129 and her sister, still under construction, the LZ 130. First trials of the LZ 129 will be held next month.

Although the southern route, as planned for the Lufthansa mail plane, is 1,875 miles longer than the Ireland-Newfoundland route, the weather conditions are more favorable and it has the advantage of possessing natural landing points, in the Azores and Bermuda.

Instead of using huge seaplanes, Lufthansa will rely on small and very swift planes, refueled at various points from vessels at anchor.

Milk Bars A Success

Milk bars have proved so successful in Scotland that several large firms in Glasgow, Edinburgh, and Aberdeen are planning to develop chains of bars. Both hot and cold weather drinks are to be prepared.

Philadelphia permits Sunday movies now. If that city gets any wickeder, its inhabitants will never have to go to New York at all.

Daring Night Raid

Spies Suspected Of Seeking Plans Of New British Aeroplane

News of a daring night raid by suspected spies, seeking secret data on a new all-metal British aeroplane being built at Gravesend, stirred the country as an intensive manhunt was launched by Scotland Yard.

At dawn, the night sentry of the Gravesend army airport, making his rounds, noted the doors of one of the hangars were open.

He entered the hangar and confronted a man of about 30. A furious fist fight ensued but it ended abruptly when another man, apparently an accomplice of the spy suspect, rushed up from behind and dealt the sentry a stunning blow with a club.

The sentry fell unconscious. When he regained his senses he gave an alarm and Scotland Yard and other police authorities immediately launched a search.

The suspected spies, it was believed, were seeking the plans of the new secret all-metal ship. The plans are kept elsewhere.

Work Of The Lifeboats

Crews Have Saved 64,335 Lives Since Institution Started

Totals of 354 lives saved last year and 394 lives saved in 1935 up to the middle of December were among the figures given at the annual meeting in the city chambers of the Edinburgh, Leith, and Granton Branch of the Royal National Lifeboat Institution. From its beginning the crews of the Institution have saved 64,335 lives from shipwreck. Edinburgh's contribution to the work during the past year, it was brought out, has been a very good one, with an increase of over 500 in subscriptions and donations. Three new motor lifeboats were added to the fleet in Scotland during the year—Edinburgh Scotsman.

New Post For Air Pilot

Pioneer of northern flying and one of Canada's airsmen, W. R. "Wop" May will take over the duties of superintendent of Mackenzie River district, Canadian Airways Limited, succeeding C. H. "Punch" Dickins who has been promoted to Winnipeg it has been announced at Edmonton.

Dress Up In Crocheted Neckwear

PATTERN 5288

Make one frock look like three with a very daintily crocheted collar, and a pair of lovely cuffs. The collar and cuff set, at top, requires just a bit of white or tinted net or georgette, set off by a border of crocheted medallions. Picture a second change using the lacy scarf which, with cotton, employs the well-known knot stitch, with a pretty fan design for its two ends. Equally simple is the collar with perky bow and square sailor back in cotton—it's what a tailored frock needs for that light, feminine touch.

In pattern 5288 you will find complete instructions for making the collars shown; an illustration of it, of the stitches needed; material requirements and color suggestions.

To obtain this pattern and 20 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg.

There is no Alice Brooks pattern book published

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON Foot Quicker Than Eye

JANUARY 5

A MOTHER'S SONG

Golden text: My soul doth magnify the Lord, And my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour.—Luke 1:46, 47.

Lesson: Luke 1.

Devotional reading: Luke 1:68-79.

Explanations And Comments

The Magnificat, Luke 1:46-55. This song of Mary, the mother of Jesus, is called the Magnificat from the first word in the Latin version, meaning magnifies: Magnificat anima mea Dominum, My soul doth magnify the Lord.

"And Mary said:" thus the poem begins. What follows is not so much addressed to Elizabeth, nor to God; it voices rather meditation upon the mercy and favor of God to Mary herself and thus to all Israel. As is usually remarked, the verses form a perfect mosaic of Old Testament quotations.

Next we have the Hebrew parallelism in the first two lines—the same thought repeated in slightly different words.

"For he hath looked upon the low estate of his handmaid." Mary was a poor, pure and perfect Pattern of our humanity had not been given intimately into her keeping. God does not choose his instruments at random; for his great tasks he has elect souls. He does not command careless and careless hands to do his finest and delicate work." (J. M. E. Ross).

"For behold, from henceforth all generations shall call me blessed." Next week we shall hear Simeon tell her, "Yes, a sword shall pierce thine heart."

"The mother of Jesus, though blessed above all women, was destined to become a sorrowful mother. We cannot imagine the tragic sorrow which she must have experienced her soul as she gazed upon her child in Calvary, but can we any better imagine her joy as she realized that she had given to the world such a life and such a spirit as his was?"

"It is not to be anywhere that this sorrowing mother ever complained of the lot that was hers to bear, or ever wished to change places with any other woman in the world. Life's highest joys and satisfactions could be in strange and unexpected ways, and very seldom through relief from burdens and care.

SELECTED RECIPES

OAT COOKIES

Temperature: 375 degrees F.

Time: 15 minutes.

1/2 cup shortening

1/2 cup brown sugar

1/2 cup "Crown Brand" Corn Syrup

2 eggs

2 cups oatmeal

1 1/2 cups bread flour

2 teaspoons baking powder

1 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon cinnamon

1/2 cup small raisins

1 cup milk

Cream the shortening; gradually add sugar and "Crown Brand" Corn Syrup; beat well. Add unbeaten eggs, one at a time, mixing until no trace of white is visible; now stir in the oatmeal. Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and cinnamon; stir in the raisins. Add to the first mixture alternately with the milk.

This should make a stiff dough. Drop by spoonfuls on a cookie sheet oiled with Mazola. Bake in a moderate oven. Note: Mazola will make the under surface of all cookies crisp and "crunchy."

Improvement In Building

Canada Leads The World In Building Industry Gains In 1935

Canada led the world in improvement in the building industry during the first 10 months of 1935, as compared with the corresponding period of 1934, according to the monthly statistical bulletin of the League of Nations.

Canada's increase was 91 per cent. Next came Australia, with a 50 per cent. increase, and the United States with an increase of 45 per cent. The United Kingdom's increase was 17 per cent.

The bulletin showed general improvement in other industries as well as building. Industrial activity in Canada increased nine per cent. over the same 1934 period.

The leading increase was shown by Russia, 20 per cent. Italy followed with 18 per cent. The United Kingdom's figure was seven per cent.

Man Of His Word

A Scotsman from the remote Highlands paid his first visit to London during the Christmas holidays. Arriving in Euston the first words he heard were: "Taxi, sir?"

Donald shook his head.

After exploring London the Scot proceeded to Bristol. Emerging from the station, he heard the familiar hail, "Taxi, sir?"

The Scot became annoyed.

"No, thank you," he bawled. "I said 'No' in London, and I meant it. Now stop following me about."

Foot Quicker Than Eye

One Explanation Of Secret Of Hindu Firewalkers' Art

"The foot is quicker than the eye," was suggested as the secret of the Hindu firewalkers' art.

It may explain why Oriental "men of faith" can walk over red hot coals without burning their feet. Dr. R. Plato Schwartz, of Rochester, N.Y., said in a letter to the Journal of the American Medical Association, Chicago. The letter referred to the exploit of a Hindu named Kuda Bux who performed in London, Eng., and invited physicians to watch him.

What surprised the physicians most was that a piece of cotton plaster put under the arch of Kuda Bux's foot was not scorched.

To Doctor Schwartz this seemed "not necessarily remarkable."

He had studied the human gait for a number of years, he said, and records of 2,000 individuals showed the feet of the average person walking at normal gait bear the weight of the body for only 45 of a second between the time the toe and the heel touch the ground.

He said the sole of the foot bears the weight only 55 of a second and that there may be no interval of time at which the entire plantar surface (or sole) of the foot is bearing weight.

Doctor Schwartz said it was "reasonable to believe" the trained firewalker elevates the heel and arch of his foot, assuming the position of a toe-dancer or as when one is sprinting.

"It seems reasonably possible that the position and time interval in which this particular individual brought his feet in contact with the hot embers was not such as to produce evidence of blisters."

"It should be remembered also that Kuda Bux was highly trained in this particular feat. His reactions were correspondingly suited to prevailing conditions."

A Money King

Wealthy Indian Prince To Celebrate Silver Jubilee

Croesus of the world's money kings, the Nizam of Hyderabad expects to celebrate his silver jubilee next month.

As premier-prince of India and according to the ancient tradition of his house, the Nizam must feed the poor of his dominions. So he has ordered that 1,000 oxen and 10,000 sheep be slaughtered and roasted for the jubilee.

The Nizam has 50 marble palaces, and on state occasions entertains in a room of solid silver. But for private use he prefers a vehicle of 1927 vintage.

"He lives in almost spartan simplicity," said Sir Akbar Hydari, minister of finance. "Money has no meaning for him, although he knows how to manage it well."

The Nizam, who rules over 14,000 subjects, has an income estimated variously from $250,000 to $500,000 a year, and in his underground room in "Hidra Durgah" deep below his palace, he reportedly has $250,000,000 in gold bars stowed away—and an additional $2,000,000 worth of precious stones, mostly diamonds and rubies.

After Long Sleep

Railway Employee In England Awakens After Sleeping Four Years

Awakened from a four-year sleep, Victor Cleave of Folkestone, Eng., said he and his family would celebrate what his friends call his "coming back from the dead."

Cleave, a railway employee, who was suffering from shell shock, began to doze over his meals in 1931. Then he fell asleep. Doctors, unable to rouse him, had to inject nourishment into his body.

Waking recently, Cleave did not recognize his own children.

"I no longer have any thoughts or feelings," he explained. "The four years have been no more than a blank in my life."

He has returned to his cottage home, after long confinement in a hospital.

Victim Of Science

Dr. William G. Kraus, 74, one of the first physicians in the southern United States to foresee the importance of the x-ray in the treatment of cancer and surgery, is dead, at Memphis, Tenn., a victim of the science in which he pioneered. He died of a cancer resulting from x-ray destruction of tissue of his left hand.

FLEMING'S FOLLY

BY LAWRENCE A. KEATING

A few drops from a new bottle of whiskey brought her slowly around. Sheriff Stephen stood with Deputy Hintz and the prisoner, his expression grim. Doc Slater watched Townsend, who still lay unconscious. "Sheriff, here's the bullet. It was a fender shot at such close range. Would have killed him sure, only it deflected from his belt buckle and used up some of the force. Got to leave him here a couple of hours, then move him to a bedroom."

"There's one right handy on this floor, Doc," Gaines offered.

"All right. We'll go now. Move the whole lounge."

Eager hands grasped it and slowly wheeled the leather affair down a short corridor. Gaines led the way. When everything was arranged to the doctor's satisfaction he escorted them from the room.

Link walked slowly back to the lobby. Stephen beckoned to him with a lean forefinger and a nod. Helen Hamilton sat with her face covered by both hands, weeping softly. Buzz had the dazed look of a drunk suddenly sobered by the awful consequences of his act.

"Meant that slug for you, eh, Link?"

He hesitated. To admit this might mean a charge of attempted murder against young Hamilton. Hurriedly he sought some possible explanation, and shook his head. "Oh, I guess it was just an accident, Sheriff."

"No, it wasn't no accident! Saw the hull thing myself from the sidewalk. Any fool could tell you were havin' wounds. Buzz tried to kill you. Townsend stepped in and took the slug, trying to get Hamilton's gun. Yuh got a genuine streak in yuh, Link, the sheriff said not quite so harshly, but 'I'll get Townsend's story so yores ain't gonna hold water, savvy? Doc, is the boy goin' to live?"

Slater was replacing the instruments in his bag. "If he does it won't be Hamilton's fault. I'm goin' to camp right here all night and tend Link."

The Boone County lawman grunted. With a yank at Buzz's manacles he started his prisoner out the door. Helen looked up, started to rise to go to him, but was restrained by Roper Kilgo. The next moment Stephen and Buzz were gone.

For a moment Link Fleming was not sure what he wanted to do. As he stood building a brown-paper cigarette with fingers that trembled, his eyes met those of the girl. Link walked slowly toward her, trying to summon some comforting thing to say.

It was Kilgo who spoke first. "Yuh shouldn't have baited him, Link. I saw there'd be trouble right off. Buzz, he wasn't feeling right, an'—"

"He wasn't feeling right because he had too much liquor!" Helen interposed with sorrow and accusation blinding in her voice. Who has been drinking with? Who? she insisted.

"Wall—reckon him'n Jackpot Mell—"

Her angry gesture stopped him. Kilgo stared down at the foot. "Coah, I'm shore sorry this happened. Anyhow, it's lucky you got somebody you can depend on. Me bein' kind of like you—I mean, since we have a sort of understandin', and I waited two years for yuh to come back, why I guess it's up to me to help you out now. Maybe we better start for the spread, eh?"

The girl drew away the hand he held. In her manner there was coldness unmistakable, freezing to anyone but the obtuse Kilgo. "Jackpot Mell is one of your closest friends. You claim to be a friend to Buzz and me. You convinced Buzz that it would be foolhardy to go into any irrigation scheme, yet he wrote me last week that you wanted to buy one hundred acres. If it is wasteland, and you don't believe in irrigation, how is that?"

"I—I think you are responsible, some way, for this thing happening," she continued in a voice she tried hard to make steady. "It's very plain, Mr. Kilgo, that you have entirely too much influence over Buzz. You could have stopped him just now but you were silent. Or rather, you egged him on. We all know he is weak!"

"Thank you," she summed up firmly. "It won't be necessary for you to see me home. Good-bye."

During her speech the Box 50

owner simply looked at her in amazement, his mouth opening and closing stupidly. Roper flushed as she ended, and his jaw set with a click. "So Fleming's been fillin' yuh with a pack of lies about me gettin' Buzz drunk?"

"We haven't had time to discuss you or anyone else!" Link stated.

The other straightened aggressively. "No, but yuh been writin' love letters when yuh know dang well Helen and me are—"

She stopped between the stern-faced men. "There is no cause for assuming that, Mr. Kilgo. Please go!"

He waited a moment longer as if undecided whether to refuse. The glint in the man's small, close-set eyes fixed upon Fleming was ominous and vengeful. At last he turned his big bulk to start away, but paused.

"Fleming, yore the cause of all this. Buzz never liked yuh, and I never liked yuh. That fool irrigation scheme is the craziest thing I've heard of in my life. I offer to buy that nine hundred acres of the Triple H just to help out, bein' as Buzz is hard up for cash. And another thing," he snapped angrily. "I don't care for tipsterin' with my private affairs, savvy?"

He hesitated as if debating whether to amplify this. His meaning was clear, however—that Link had come between him and Helen Hamilton. Finally, with a growl, Roper stamped to the lobby door and was gone out alone.

For the first time Fleming became aware that darkness was fast descending as the November afternoon waned into night. Far down the street but visible from where he stood at the lobby window, a knot of curious citizens looked outside the small adobe jail. They were discussing, no doubt, the incarceration of Buzz Hamilton.

Link went back to the bedroom and talked a moment in low tones to Dr. Slater. The practitioner promised to give Buster Townsend every care, and to remain at his patient's side all during the night. He would send word in the morning how things went, or Link would be possible, come to see his faithful rider.

Returning to the lobby, he stood before Helen, his hat turning slowly between his fingers. "I'd sure like to take you home, you don't mind. But if you'd rather—well, maybe yuh'd like to be alone, sort of."

She dabbed her eyes with a mite of handkerchief and looking up at him, managed a brave, warm smile. "You, Link, I'm glad if you would go with me. Shall we start now?"

CHAPTER IV.

The ride to the Triple H Ranch was uneventful. Driving the backboard Helen had brought to town for his sister's baggage, Fleming made little effort at conversation, feeling that Helen Hamilton preferred to be left to her thoughts. Much had happened to mar the happiness of her homecoming. Almost before she had had an opportunity to greet her brother he became the sheriff's prisoner for attempting to kill a man. If Buster Townsend succumbed to his wound, Buzz would have succeeded, although his fury had been directed at Fleming.

Link turned the equipage over to a woman who appeared, and made ready to mount his buckskin pony, which had been jogging behind the backboard. The stool in a shaft of yellow light from one of the front windows of the ranch house. Some what awkwardly, he shook hands with the girl and turned to mount.

But she stayed him with a thoughtful question. "You are really serious about building an irrigation dam, aren't you? I mean, you'll try to water your own spread whether other ranchers go in with you or not?"

He nodded soberly. "Maybe everyone else is right on this, and I'm plumb foolish. But I believe in it, Helen. I've learned as much about irrigation as a layman can. Why, I know it'll work."

He grew reflective. "I was sure surprised when Soak Torney and irrigation wouldn't pay here in the county. Soak doesn't really believe that, I'm positive. He's been almost as eager for it as I have. Spent a lot of time makin' those blueprints, and stayin' sober enough to talk about it. Yesterday he was all for it. To-day he reverses himself. Somebody talked to Torney, bought him off. Or maybe threatened him. He shook his head. 'Don't know who did it or how, but it sure would. He seems to have disappeared now.'"

The girl said nothing for a moment as she gazed across the range bathed in early evening moonlight toward the bulk of the Captain Mountains. "Buzz didn't favor irrigation, ever, did he?"

"Oh, first time I mentioned it and he was just stand-offish. But right after that he got dead set against it. Why?"

She shook her head. "Who has

AND MORE TO COME
—South Wales Echo & Express, Cardiff.

Buzz kept company with lately? Does he spend much time with—Roper Kilgo?"

Fleming moistened the edge of his cigarette paper and carefully shaped the smoke. "Course, Roper's about the most important cattlemen around. He's practically boss here. I reckon it's natural for Buzz to kind of snatch up the pearls of wisdom Kilgo drops about rangin' cows and other important things."

The irony in his tone did not deceive her. On sudden impulse she touched his forearm. "Link, you—you think they'll do something to Buzz for this shooting? Like putting him in prison?"

In Former Days

Comment On Manners And Fashions Of Yesterday

It may comfort the younger generation to know that scandalized comment on manners and fashions is not confined to the present. Grandmother had to put up with it, too.

An engaged girl in 1881 provoked an editorial in a Toronto newspaper, when she kissed her beau in public, and "looseness in dress" was the subject of an editorial printed in 1885. It was shown by clippings in an old scrapbook covering the period 1880-1890, which were the subject of an informal talk by J. Alex. Edmondson, Montreal lawyer, to a women's club.

So untrustworthy had men become in 1884—it appeared from an English clipping—that there was a movement on foot to allow women to be accountants.

Advertisements of the period indicated that the husband of 1885 was likely to come home to find his wife had bought him an "American steel" collar or collars and cuffs made of paper.

Change Stamp Design

Reported Attempt Made To Alter Princess Elizabeth Stamp

The post office department reported attempts were being made to forge a tear on the "Princess Elizabeth" stamp issued that spring in connection with the king's jubilee.

The stamp, known as the "weeping princess" because of a small imperfection appearing in some specimens before the princess' right eye and resembling a tear, became a rarity among philatelists.

Famous Wigmaker Dead

Willie Clarkson Was Interesting Figure In London's Life

The death of Willie Clarkson removes one of the most interesting figures in London's life.

Eminent as a wig maker and famous as an improvisator and as an originator of costumes, he became at the end of his life a social personality who was never absent from first nights and was in demand at the most important social functions of the year.

He deliberately dressed to make himself a character, and used to allow his hair and beard to grow in fantastic shapes. Wherever he went he selected for himself some appropriate accoutrement which set off his handsome features and imposing manner.

"Wigs by Clarkson" has appeared on the programs of most of the productions of note during the past half century, and his uniforms—50,000 of them, from William the Conqueror's time onward, were part of his stock—have been used for military tournaments and fancy dress balls.

Young Clarkson had a flair for wig-making and fashioned those for the stars of the stage, kings and crooks as well. The wigs were made at the back of his shop in Wardour street.

Above the shop he had his home. He was unmarried. His flat is crowded with souvenirs given by the world's theatre and opera stars.

Sarah Bernhardt was a special friend of his, and he took particular pride in the wig in which she played Magdalen and had to throw her hair over the feet of the actor playing the part of the Saviour. The wig was of natural hair, 66 inches long!

Another large-sized job was the transformation of a lioness into a lion. A circus manager had announced the appearance of "The Fiercest Lion in the World" before he had seen the animal. Alas! it turned out to be a sleek lioness. But by the next afternoon Mr. Clarkson had fitted out the lioness with a magnificent mane mounted on elastic, and thousands were fooled.

Congress Of Hunters

Meeting To Be Held In Washington At Early Date

A continental congress of hunters, fishermen and others interested in North America's game resources—a meeting with more than 1,000 possible delegates—was called by President Roosevelt to meet at Washington at an early date. Canada and Mexico probably will be asked to send representatives.

In calling the wild life conservation conference, the president followed the recommendation of J. N. "Ding" Darling, who recently resigned as chief of the biological survey bureau. The noted conservationist, and conservationist, in submitting his resignation, urged such a conference to create a federation of all wild life agencies with sufficient power to obtain protective legislation.

Darling's conference would cover everything from big game animals, such as deer, bear and antelope down to the smallest fish and fowl. Among the collateral subjects to be considered, the president said, are stream pollution control and better utilization of impounded waters, reservation lands, national parks and eroded lands. Waterpower, he said, would be only indirectly involved.

Teaching English In Berlin

Employees Being Prepared To Handle Crowds At Olympic Games

A school for English has been opened in one of the best known cabarets in the West End of Berlin, Germany. Waiters, page boys and bar maids come to this cabaret in the afternoon. Across the front of the bar a blackboard has been put up and a teacher stands before it.

The pupils sit around little tables at which, a few hours later, guests sip wines. They repeat in chorus the English phrases: "Good evening, sir." "What would you like to drink?" "Here is your change, sir." "Auf Wiedersehen—Goodbye."

The staff of forty cabarets, bars and restaurants in Berlin are joining the English Special Olympics as part of the preparations for the Olympic games next year.

Little Helps For This Week

Man's goings are of the Lord; how then can a man understand his own way. Proverbs 20:24.

Be quiet, why this anxious heed About they tangled ways? God knows them all. He giveth speed, And He allows delays.

We complain of the slow dull life we are forced to lead, of our humble sphere of action, our low position in the scale of society, of our having no room to make ourselves known, of our wasted energies and our years of pence. So do we say we have no Father who is directing our life, so do we say that God has forgotten us, boldly judge what life is best for us, and by our complaining do we lose the use and profit of the quiet years. O men of little faith. Because you are not yet set out to your labor do you think God has ceased to remember you? Because you are forced to be outwardly active do you think you also, in your years of quiet, may not be about your Father's business? It is a period given us in which to mature ourselves for the work God will give us to do.

Helping Mothers to Cut Down On Family's Colds

Unique Formula for Nose and Throat Helps to Prevent Colds—And to Throw Off Head Colds at the Start.

SOON CLEARS "STUFFY HEAD"

Mothers are often worried about their children's colds. They find special comfort in Nature's Vicks Vapo-rinol for preventing colds.

Especially designed for nose and upper throat, where most colds start, Vapo-rinol stimulates the functions of Nature's glands, helps to prevent colds, and to throw off head colds in the early stages.

Used time and time again, sneeze or nasal irritation—just a few drops of Vapo-rinol—helps to clear the throat.

Where irritation has led to a clogged-up nose (a stuffy head cold or sinusitis) Vicks Vapo-rinol, spread through the nasal passages, reduces swollen membranes—clears clogging—brings comforting relief.

A Practical Guide for Mothers Each year, more and more families are being hit by faster colds, shorter colds and milder colds by following Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Vicks Plan has been clinically tested by practicing physicians, and further proved in everyday home use time and time again. Full details of the Plan come in each package of Vicks Vapo-rinol.

W. J. BARTLETT, PUBLISHER

Blairmore, Alta., Thur., Jan. 9, 1936

It is the average opinion of the respectable citizens of Blairmore and the whole Crows' Nest Pass that if Mr. Aberhart, Alberta's present premier, wants to establish a real name for himself, he could not do better than see to it that the town of Blairmore is absolutely cleaned up of its gaming dives, sporting houses, blind pigs, etc., which for a considerable time have been tolerated and protected by Mayor Bill Knight's regime. Referring to his "regime," it is scarcely fair to include all members of his council, for it is a known fact that some members of that aggregation, and probably today the majority, are not in favor of any longer permitting the existence of unlawful institutions, from which it is entirely possible to reap profit.

It is gratifying to many of the more respectable element of our community to know that steps are being taken to make a cleanup, and the sooner the cleanup is carried out to a successful conclusion, the better for all. There are many institutions in the Crows' Nest Pass that are endangering the morals of our younger generation to a far greater extent than liquor ads appearing in the public press.

HILLCREST HAPPENINGS

Misses Catherine and Helen Rose, Gwyn Richards and Bob Cruickshank, who are attending Alberta University, spent the holidays at their homes here.

The annual school concert was held in the Union hall on the Thursday before Christmas, with Mr. W. Brushett as chairman. The programme, although lengthy, was much enjoyed. During the evening, prize books were given to the following boys and girls for having the highest averages in their grades last June: Grade I, Billy Gryschuk; Grade II, Betty Fry; Grade III, Helen Kybicz; Grade IV, Violet Cassagrande; Grade V, Hazel Willets; Grade VI, Anna McNeill; Grade VII, Olga Terlecki; Grade VIII, June Penn. Medals were given to the high school students with highest marks as follows: Grade IX, Harry Draper; Grade X, Mary Linnicka; Grade XI, Kenneth Thornton; Grade XII, Helen Rose.

James Marshall and Jean Cruickshank returned to Calgary on Sunday to resume their musical studies.

W. Hutchison is spending a vacation in Vancouver.

The Sunday school held a programme at the church on the Monday before Christmas. At the conclusion, Santa Claus paid a visit and gave sacks of candy to the boys and girls. June Penn entertained at her home on Monday night.

Bob Warriner has been visiting at his home here during the holidays.

The high school held a whist drive and dance on Monday. Whist drives went to: ladies, Mrs. J. Dudley and Mrs. Panik; gents, John Andreashuk and Gwyn Richards. Dancing followed till early morn.

The dance sponsored by the men's Social Credit group on Boxing Day was a huge success.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Brushett and Teddy agent the Christmas holidays in Edmonton.

G. Emery has been confined to his home through illness for the past two weeks.

Miss E. Strachan is visiting at her home in Trochu.

Miss Allie Greener, who is teaching in the Carinangay district, spent her vacation at home here.

A. Chryslar returned from Calgary on Sunday.

Cyril and Sam Richards, who are teaching in Breton, were home with their parents during the holidays.

Cecil Coover, of Coumts, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Dudley.

A wedding of local interest took place on Thursday last, when Miss Verdun Greener, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Greener, became the bride of Mr. A. Barnett. After a week's honeymoon in Calgary, the young couple will make their home in Hillcrest.

Miss Mary Davies was a visitor over the New Year at the home of Mrs. E. Fisher.

Misses Helen and Catherine Rose were hostesses at a private dance in the Masonic hall on Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Henderson are rejoicing over the advent of a baby girl.

Mrs. Gostick, Calgary M.L.A., was a visitor at the home of Mrs. Rees while giving a series of lectures in The Pass.

Programme of school concert is unavoidably crowded out of this issue.

The population of Hill Sixty was considerably lessened last week end.

COWLEY HAPPENINGS

Dec. 31.—Mrs. C. Dambois and three children, of Bellevue, spent New Year's with Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Morrison and family.

Miss Nellie McWilliams is spending the Yuletide with her mother at their ranch home north of Lundbreck.

Rev. R. Upton, of Bellevue, held Christmas service in the United church here on Sunday, a large congregation being present.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Anderson and baby son, of Hillcrest, are paying a few days' visit with Mr. and Mrs. George Porter and family.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. McLaane and daughter, of Calgary, are paying a holiday visit to Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Tustian.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Gilmore are spending the season's holidays with their daughter, Mrs. W. Willoughby, in Lethbridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Littleton spent Christmas Day with Mr. and Mrs. Wells in Bellevue.

Miss Dorothy Irwin was a recent visitor to Lethbridge.

George Goldie, of Lethbridge, paid a visit of a few days here with Mr. and Mrs. Archie Swart and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and two children, of Arrowwood, are paying a holiday visit here with Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Horning, her parents.

A very successful dance, sponsored by the Cowley Ladies to clear up the Christmas Tree fund deficit, was staged in Wilson's hall on the night of December the 27th, when a large crowd attended. The door prize was won by George Cleland, while the spot prizes went to Miss Dora Day and Mr. Harry Wright. Receipts at the door amounted to around seventy dollars. During the supper hour, the crowd was entertained by Mr. Johnson, of Arrowwood; Alvin Treadway, of Pincher Station, and Rudolph Tesmer, of Pincher Creek, who sang yodelling numbers, and by Silvia Stott and Mr. Tesmer, who did fancy stepdancing. A jolly good time was had.

On Christmas Eve, an old-time custom was observed here, when around forty people crowded into two old-fashioned sleighs, drawn by horses. They made themselves comfortable, sitting on beds of straw, as they went from house to house singing Christmas carols. The night was fine, and the earth was mantled with about six inches of freshly fallen snow, and the merry tinkle of the sleighbells added a joyous note to the carolling.

A very entertaining Christmas concert and tree was staged in the Wilson hall on Thursday evening, December 20th, when around two hundred and fifty people were present. A well prepared programme of singing, reciting, dancing, and two good plays were the order of the evening until the arrival of Santa Claus. After the distribution of presents to every child, including the tiny infants, the floor was cleared and the young folks danced a couple of hours. Around $32 was taken at the door, which was added to the Christmas Tree fund.

A very pretty wedding of local interest was solemnized at high noon of December 30th in the United church here, when Rev. Mr. Whitmore, of Pincher Creek, joined in the holy bonds of matrimony Selma Ethel, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Wood, and Frederick Arthur Tustian, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Tustian, both of Cowley. The bride, who was given away by her father, was charming in a blue gown of crepe silk with silver slippers and other accessories to match, and the bridal bouquet of pink roses she carried matched the blushes of her cheeks as she took her place beside the groom under the wedding arch, which was beautifully decorated with evergreen boughs, white wedding bells and white poinsettias. She was attended by her sister, Miss Ilia dives and friends. Heck is now re-wood, while the groom was supported by his brother Lou, that he and by his brother, Mr. Radford Tustian. his family may spend New Year's in On this auspicious occasion, the church was packed to standing. As the young couple left the church, they were showered with rice and confetti until they sought retreat in the shelter of a car that was in waiting to convey them away to the home of the bride, where a bounteous wedding feast awaited them, to which only relatives were invited. The happy couple left on the afternoon train for Banff for a brief honeymoon. They have the best wishes of the community, and will take up residence in Cowley.

Jan. 2.—One of the jolliest frolics ever staged in Cowley took place on New Year's Eve, in the Wilson hall, where a large crowd had gathered to make merry with dance and song as the old year died and the new one was ushered in. Many old-time dances were engaged-in, making a pleasing variation along with modern ones. Frolicsome games were played and about 6 o'clock on Friday evening the highway about a mile and a half west of town, as Rev. R. Upton, of Bellevue, accompanied by his wife and two children, June and Mavis, were coming eastward in a car, going at the rate of about 15 miles an hour, when they ran into a bunch of horses with their heads turned together, completely blocking the road. As the car crashed into the horses, one huge animal suffered a broken leg, while another lunged into the car at the back, shattering glass, which fell on the children, who were in the back seat. The car was considerably damaged. Mr. Upton and family luckily escaped uninjured, with only a slight shaking up. Police were called to the scene of the accident, when one of the wounded horses was shot.

Jan. 8.—Ronald Morrison has returned to Calgary, where he will continue his studies at the School of Technology.

Miss Ilia Wood left Thursday to resume her duties as teacher of the Turin school.

After spending the Yuletide with her parents, Miss Helen Morrison has returned to Pincher Creek, where she is high school teacher.

Several Cowley young folks attended the house party given by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cleland at their home in the Porcupine Hills on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brockwell entertained a number of friends at their home on the North Fork river on New Year's Eve.

A large number of young folks gathered at the home of Stan and Bob Warner on Friday night last, giving them a surprise party, which was much enjoyed.

Heck Lemire and family have returned from Macleod, where they spent the Christmas holidays with relatives.

to two or three comments we made a few months ago, warning Aberhart against making his Social Credit too rosy. He is finding out that many people accepted his figure of speech as a definite promise and that to them Social Credit without $25 a month is just so much more political biloney. Our private opinion is that these people are very foolish. The new party is in power and is going to stay in power, and should be given the opportunity to do its stuff—or quit. But the law of compensation has a way of hovering over every movement, as well as over every individual. Aberhart was very critical of those who preceded them. This law of compensation brings him more than normal criticism. No doubt he is aware that there is a passage in the scriptures that reads, "those that live by the sword shall die by the sword."

Morality And Democracy

A Toronto newspaper editor, addressing a club in that city recently made an urgent plea for a return to what he termed the "Old System of Morality", basing his plea on the declaration that if democracy and its key-words, freedom of the press, freedom of thought and freedom of action are to survive, reverence to former standards of morality is essential.

The editorial writer asserted that "democracy never was in greater danger than it is to-day, even though it may not be threatened by emperors or tyrants, except those of our own creation. The threat is the ultimate moral and physical collapse of democracy's constituent parts."

While perhaps some of the illustrations used by this editor were somewhat overdrawn, nevertheless the premises on which he based his argument are sound and the warning and its accompanying plea for rehabilitation of some of the virtues which dominated family life and were regarded as an essential in the conduct of trade and commerce in the days of our parents and grandparents are worthy of consideration and should be heeded.

The pendulum of morality and conduct has swung through a wide arc since those days when it was regarded as a sin to read a newspaper on the Sabbath day, when children were universally taught and expected to reverence their elders and when those elders themselves were largely motivated by simple but inspired rules in the conduct of their homes, their farms or their businesses and in their relations with their neighbors.

Perhaps the pendulum has swung too far in the direction of lack of restraint and elimination of self-governance, for it is a sine qua non that self-governance is a necessity before one can govern others with success or inspire respect. The loosening of moral standards of the individual is bound to have an adverse effect on the life of the community and the nation and eventually to determine the communal and national welfare.

Few perhaps are prepared to argue that we should return to the prohibitions and restrictions of the mid-Victorian era in their entirety but there is reasonable ground for argument that reverance to some of the virtues which dominated the actions of the period would not only not be amiss but would tend to strengthen a weakening democracy.

Who would deny, for instance, that a more extensive practice of thrift, hard work, reverence for authority, respect for law and order and simple pleasures, would tend in the direction of building up a vigorous, self-reliant nation, or that a nation of individuals, thus morally equipped, is best able to hold its own in the conflicts for supremacy and in the battle for maintenance?

The value of these virtues in the individual in determining the national advancement and welfare is well illustrated in the achievements of the Romans in the century immediately preceding the birth of Christ. During that period the Roman Empire reached the zenith of its brilliant career. It was the era of its most illustrious writers, agriculturists, historians, law makers, commanders and statesmen, yet it was a period in which the simple virtues dominated the upbringing of the youth and the lives of the people.

Testimony to that effect is afforded in a bulletin recently published by one of the grain companies in which the following quotations are found: "The education of the Roman boys and girls of the period was designed to fit them for farm life. Girls were taught to manage a home, to spin and weave, boys to plow, sow, reap, and to manage the business affairs of the farm, and, as well, to know how to conduct the various offices of state, including the very highest for farmers above all others, were chosen to fill these exalted positions.

"The character of the young people was moulded so as to develop a respect for parental authority and for law and order. They were taught to be modest in speech, discreet in behaviour, and as well to be thrifty and self-reliant."

The practice of these simple and fundamental virtues does not necessarily involve abandonment of the fruits of scientific achievement which have so bountifully enriched present day life, but it does mean that we will take advantage of them as we can afford them without mortgaging the future to the hills.

There are evidences of a desire on the part of our governments to return to the sound policy of balancing their budgets, in other words to revert to the "pay as you go" plan. Their success in achieving this laudable ambition will be determined by the attitude of the people which have placed these governments in authority, and the attitude of the people will be governed by their own views and practices in their private and business lives.

The fact that this tendency on the part of our governments exists is a healthy sign, for governments are supposed to have their ear to the ground and to know what the people want.

Maybe the pendulum has already started to swing back.

Reconstruction Policy

Parliament To Be Asked To Endorse Proposal

Parliament will be asked at the coming session to endorse a proposal for a widely-embracing national reconstruction policy, including building homes, slum clearance, land and settlement and reforestation. Loans under the scheme would be made available at low interest rates, while the creation of greater opportunity for the youth of Canada would be a major objective.

Sponsor of the proposal will be Thomas L. Church (Cons., Toronto Broadview), who will ask approval of a resolution in the following terms:

1. That in the opinion of this house, Canada should immediately adopt a comprehensive national housing, building, reconstruction, renovation, slum clearance, land settlement and reforestation policy adapted to its circumstances, and also embracing as one of its main features a national policy for youth in relation to education and industry and employment, so as to get people off the dole and back to remunerative employment.

2. And further, this house is also of the opinion that in any such national reconstruction policy a lower rate structure for bonds, mortgages and insurance loans is an immediate necessity. Such a reconstruction policy to also embrace protection for industrial workers in urban and suburban areas from foreclosure on the same principle as farmers and fishermen are now afforded by existing legislation.

Quakes Are Annoying

Northern Ontario Settlers Are Now Becoming Hysterical

This business of earthquake shocks up along the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario railway has gone far past the thrill and novelty stage. If they don't soon stop, say harassed settlers, the government will have to do something about it.

The folks up around Diver station, 30 miles north of North Bay, are pestered, nervous and plain fed up. The latest complaint came from F. E. Sains, who may be regarded as official spokesman for settlers in the Diver area.

Settler Sains snowshoed two miles from his cabin to the nearest telephone line and let it be known the least the federal authorities can do is start an investigation. After all, he is start in investigation. After all, there must be some cause for these rattlings and shakings.

Mr. Sains said tremors have been felt ever since last May, and the big quake of Nov. 1, with its epicentre near Diver, left its trail of recurrent rumblings and quivers.

"They last from a few seconds to more than a minute, and have come at the rate of 15 or 20 in a single day," said Mr. Sains. "I think the ground in which my cabin is built must be hollow, for the cabin seems to lift right up in the air when the quakes come. And from the sound of the rumbling, I believe the ground on each side is hollow too."

Canada Must Support League
Canada's proper future is tied up with the British Commonwealth of Nations and the League of Nations and it is to this country's advantage to support these groups wholeheartedly, declared Sir Robert Falconer, president of the League of Nations Society in Canada, in an address before the Border Cities branch at Windsor, Ont.

Economic Council

Premier Of Nova Scotia Appoints Prominent Men Of The Province

Representatives of Nova Scotia's mining, lumbering, fishing, agricultural and manufacturing industries were named along with education and labor authorities to a newly-created economic council by Premier Angus L. Macdonald.

Nine prominent Nova Scotians, headed by Dr. A. Stanley MacKenzie, former president of Dalhousie University, who will be chairman of the commission, had assured the premier they were "quite ready to render their assistance in every possible way."

The council was instituted on the recommendation of the Jones commission which investigated the economic ills of this province a year ago and reported "we believe that the first need is the establishment of an economic council."

The following were named as members of the council:

Dr. A. S. MacKenzie, a noted Canadian scientist, former president of Dalhousie University, and senior member of the national research council of Canada, chairman;

Dr. A. B. Balcom, professor of economics, Acadia University, Wolfville—representing education;

F. W. Gray, assistant general manager of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, associated with the Nova Scotia steel and coal industry in various executive capacities since 1909—representing mining;

C. G. Hawkins, of Milford Station, Kings county, prominent Nova Scotia lumberman;

Neil McLaughlin, president of the plant council of the Sydney steel plant—representing labor;

Dr. Donald F. Macdonald, associate professor of geology at St. Francis Xavier University, Antigonish, who has had wide practical experience as a geological expert since 1906 when he graduated from George Washington University;

O. F. MacKenzie, president of Halifax Fisheries and established that exporting firm in 1914 after he had had practical experience as a fisherman—representing fishing;

Frank Stanfield, Truro, president of Stanfields Limited—representing manufacturing;

P. Waldo Walsh, director of marketing for the Nova Scotia department of agriculture—representing agriculture.

The council will probably meet early in the new year. One of its first duties will be to appoint a permanent secretary. All appointments are effective immediately.

New Engine For 'Plane

Famous Freighters Will Take To Air Again Soon

One of Canada's largest planes, the famous Junkers JU-52 freighter brought to this country in 1932 by Canadian Airways, will take to the airways again soon and prairie residents will get their first chance to see it.

The huge ship, built to carry tons of freight and with a cabin so large a man can walk up and down it without bending his head, only made a few flights in northern Manitoba when it became a "white elephant of the air." The motor gave out and the Canadian aeronautics branch's refusal to license the ship even if repair parts were obtained caused Canadian Airways to put it in storage.

The government air experts said the motor was not big enough for such a huge plane. But the British air ministry just recently released one of its proved 900-horsepower Rolls Royce air motors and Canadian Airways purchased it. One-third greater in power than the original motor, the Rolls Royce will be fitted to the Junkers and the plane again put in operation. Present plans are to fly it over the prairies in tests before taking it north again for the heavy freight work there.

World's Oldest Men

Have Just Died Within Short Time Of Each Other

The world's oldest men have just died almost at the same time. At Mala Krna, near Belgrade, Jugoslavia, a man named Trajko Smiljkovich has died at the age of 121. He had been married for 80 years, and enjoyed good health almost to the end of his life. His wife who survives him, is still upright and sturdy. All the peasants for miles around are mourning for the old man, for he was an excellent story-teller and a mine of historical reminiscences. Besides this, they regret that his old ambition—to ride in a motor car before he died—was unfulfilled. Meanwhile the oldest man in Durban, Natal, has died at the age of 108. He was Krammchund, an Indian market gardener. He came to Durban from India in 1874.

Identification Cards

Use Throughout Canada Is Recommended By Montreal Citizen

Use of identification cards for citizens throughout Canada, was recommended by Brig.-Gen. E. de Panet, president of Montreal unemployed relief commission.

Such a scheme, he told members of the City Improvement League, would aid greatly in such problems as registering unemployed, preventing impersonation at polling booths and would also serve in the nature of a prospect within the country.

Suddenly a piercing scream rang out, and he rushed to the kitchen prepared to face he knew not what.

New Discovery Important

Chemical Prevents Ice Forming On Aeroplane Wings

A chemical method of preventing the formation of ice on aeroplane wings has been discovered by research engineers of the Royal Air Force, it was announced by Sir Philip Sassoon, parliamentary under-secretary to the air ministry.

It is generally believed the loss of the Belgian air liner December 10 near Talsfield, Kent, which took 11 persons to their death, was caused by the accumulation of ice on the plane's wings.

Sir Philip said the new discovery is being carefully developed and is expected to make for greater safety in all kinds of flying weather.

New Dwellings Needed

Many Homes Needed In Canada To House Low-Wage Earners

The board of control at Ottawa had under consideration a report from a sub-committee of the National Construction Council of Canada, saying at least 2,096 new dwellings are needed to house low-wage earners and relief tenants.

The report said at least 576 existing occupied dwelling units might be demolished to make room for new and more satisfactory houses.

It added rehabilitation of 1,369 houses should be launched and that 5,625 families are occupying 3,529 dwellings, causing serious overcrowding.

A Simple Preventive

ITALY SAID TO BE INCREASING HER NAVAL STRENGTH

Rome.—In a move interpreted in some quarters as designed to prepare for possible "events" against an oil embargo be imposed should her Italy was reported to be strengthening her navy.

Reliable sources said it was understood about 13,000 naval specialists had been recalled for service. Most of them were said to have served formerly in the gun or powder rooms of Italian ships.

Some quarters believed the move might also have resulted from British diplomatic steps to assure support from Mediterranean powers for the British navy, should it be attacked in the course of sanctions imposition.

Premier Mussolini will reject any proposal for peace in Ethiopia based on the Hoare-Laval plan or the ideas of the League of Nations committee of five, the officially-inspired newspaper Il Diritto predicted.

Announcing that Italy's demands in Ethiopia were greater "and will remain greater"—than any offer yet made by the powers, the newspaper charged editorially that Britain regarded existing treaties concerning Ethiopia as "the traditional scrap of paper."

The house of commons speech by Sir Samuel recently "clearly showed the inconsistency of the Anglo-French peace plan," the newspaper declared, asserting that the Italo-Franco-British treaty of 1906 and the Anglo-Italian treaty of 1925, both registered with the League of Nations, granted to Italy much greater rights in Ethiopia than did the Hoare-Laval proposal.

Fatal Plane Crash

Kenneth Nette Killed In Accident Near Eastend

Eastend, Sask.—A plane, which he had built himself, carried Kenneth O. Nette, 24-year-old Tompkins machine shop employee, to death in a field near the farm home of S. O. Bengtson, some 10 miles south of here, as he circled for a landing. It was believed a wing had dropped off the machine.

The plane, as it struck the ground, burst into flames, but Mr. Bengtson and Allan Primrose, 25-year-old hired man, managed to get the body out of the machine. Nette, when the two men reached the plane, was dead.

Bengtson and Primrose managed to escape uninjured as they carried the body from the burning machine.

Nette, whose family lives at Staynor Hall, post office 30 miles south of here, had flown from Tompkins to the home of his parents to spend Christmas with them. It was the first long flight he had made with the plane, which he had built in the last three years in spare time. He had made other flights, however, in recent months.

Day after Christmas Nette was going to drop in at the Bengtson home for dinner on his way back to Tompkins. He was circling a field near the residence when his machine crashed and burst into flames.

Fatal Gun Accident

George F. Chipman Of Winnipeg Is Accidentally Shot

Winnipeg.—George F. Chipman, 54, managing director of the Country Guide, was shot to death accidentally in waging war against rabbits on his farm at Charleswood, Man., 10 miles west of here.

With Selwyn Smith, an employee on his farm, Mr. Chipman was shooting rabbits that had been attacking his trees and shrubs on his farm where he conducted many plant experiments. The shooting party was one of many he had undertaken to rid his property of the pests.

Going through brush, he stumbled and fell. His shotgun discharged and the shot entered his head. Death was almost instantaneous. The body was removed to Winnipeg and it is not expected that an inquest will be held.

A journalist for 25 years, active in farm organizations and a breeder of plants and fruits with an international reputation, Mr. Chipman was one of the most prominent men in farm activities in Western Canada.

Loan Not For Public

Banks Will Purchase $40,000,000 Issue Offered By Canada

Ottawa.—Finance Minister Dunning filed with the securities and exchange commission of the United States government a registration statement in connection with the issue and sale in the United States of $40,000,000 Dominion of Canada two per cent. three-year notes. It was proposed to make the issue to a group of American and Canadian banks headed by the Chase National Bank of New York.

No public offering is to be made at this time as the government is advised the banks were purchasing the notes solely for investment for their own account. The notes will be sold at a price to the government of 99.75, to yield approximately 2.09 per cent.

The issue is being made to refinance short term borrowings made in New York September 1 and December 1 in connection with the prior redemption of $23,740,000 Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada 20-year seven per cent. bonds dated October 1, 1920, due October 1, 1940, and $23,779,000 Canadian North Railway Company 20-year seven per cent. bonds dated December 1, 1920, due December 1, 1940.

The annual saving in interest as a result of the redemption of the seven per cent. bonds will amount to over $2,000,000.

Russia Increases Navy

Gives Warning To Germany And Japan Through The Press

Moscow.—The Soviet union, in a thinly disguised warning to Germany and Japan, announced through the press that its submarine and destroyer fleets have been practically quadrupled during the last four years.

A statement printed in the government newspaper, Izvestia, said in addition that the coastguard fleet had been increased 1,100 per cent, but gave no figures bearing on the actual strength of any naval unit.

The whole statement bristled with emphasis on Russia's undersea power on the Pacific and Baltic and appeared to foreign observers to be particularly significant, coming, as it did, on the heels of the alleged threat by Japan and Manchukuo to invade outer Mongolia.

London.—The Soviet Union and the Baltic states, it was learned on reliable authority, have asked Great Britain to define its attitude toward possible control of the Baltic sea by Germany.

Rebels of the enquiry from the U.S.S.R. and neighboring northern states spread among delegates to the five-power naval conference. The step is believed to have been taken in relation to the parity now adjourned until next month.

State Controlled Mines

Far-Reaching Project Halted With Delight By British Miners

London.—A far-reaching project to permit the state purchase of coal mining royalties is being halted triumphantly by Soviets.

The measure is calculated by its proponents to free miners from the yoke of private ownership which has restricted them to an average wage of $11 a week.

Sir Thomas Inskip, attorney-general, announced the government plans to buy out the owners of mining royalties.

"It means the purchase of these royalties by the state and thereafter their control by the state," he told the House of Commons.

"It will involve a change of ownership and direction from 4,000 private owners to single public ownership, controlled by the state in the interest of the community."

Jubilant cries of "This is Socialism! This means the nationalization of England!" swelled from the Socialist benches in parliament when Sir Thomas made the announcement.

But whatever it means politically, it is a stunning blow for a number of peers of the realm whose great hereditary fortunes are founded on mine royalties.

To Develop Tar Sands

Alberta Government Likely To Go Ahead With Plans

Calgary.—Development of northern Alberta tar sands and contiguous resources, as planned by the provincial government, would undoubtedly go ahead, Hon. C. G. Ross, provincial minister of mines, stated in an interview here.

As soon as a definite statement could be made, the government would make one, he added.

Escaped From Burning Plane

Pilot Made Safe Landing And Rescued Unconscious Passenger

Kenosha, Ont.—How an aeroplane caught fire 1,500 feet in the air, an unconscious passenger being dragged to safety after the pilot had desperately "side-slipped" to a landing on a small frozen lake, was told here.

Pilot Charles Robinson took off from Red Lake, 120 miles north of here, with Gus Johnson, a miner, as a passenger. Over a small, unidentified lake, smoke entered the passenger cabin and Johnson attracted the attention of Robinson, who immediately began to alight the plane to safety.

As the machine was going down, flames burst through into the cabin and Johnson pushed his club bag containing his clothes into the hole made by the flames. Then the bag caught fire and Johnson was overcome by smoke.

Robinson made a hurried landing and, opening the door of the cabin, found his passenger unconscious. He dragged the helpless man to safety. Meanwhile, the plane was burning rapidly and was totally destroyed within a short time. Both men made their way here.

CANADA'S WHEAT SUPPLY ON HAND IS STILL HEAVY

Winnipeg.—The Canadian wheat board estimated the amount of Canadian wheat available for export at Dec. 14, at 290,373,703 bushels.

In a survey of the general wheat situation, the board pointed out heavy exports of wheat each week from now until the end of the crop year would be necessary to reduce the carryover to normal.

The carryover of old crop wheat at July 31 was 215,000,000 bushels which, combined with the new crop from the whole Dominion, makes a total of 488,000,000 bushels.

From this figure, 115,000,000 bushels was deducted in the wheat board's survey for home requirements, leaving, as at July 31, an exportable surplus of 373,000,000 bushels.

From August 1 to December 14 the export of Canadian wheat and flour, including sales to the United States was 82,626,297 bushels, leaving at the latter date, 290,373,703 bushels on hand.

Shipment of 4,000,000 bushels weekly in the last 32 weeks of the crop year would reduce this total by 128,000,000 bushels and would leave a carryover of 162,373,703 bushels on Aug. 1, 1936.

Railway Competition

Would Enact Uniform Legislation Governing Operation Of Trucks

Ottawa.—Railways Minister Howe said he had decided a royal commission would not be appointed by the Dominion government to investigate the use of public highways by trucks and buses. He has been considering the proposal some time.

His department was endeavoring to have the various provincial governments enact uniform legislation governing the operation of buses and trucks to meet the problem of their competition with Canadian railways.

MASTERPIECE DISCOVERED UNDER LAYER OF DUST

A totally unknown Van Dyck, worth many thousands of dollars, has just been discovered and will be shown to the London public shortly. The picture was one of Van Dyck's comparatively rare religious canvases. It shows the Flight into Egypt, and was found in a north-country mansion, its owners unaware of its value and its beauties hidden by a thick layer of dust. Since it has been cleaned its brilliant colours are resplendent as if new.

SEES WAR CLOUDS

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, who has just returned to Canada, after serving in London as Canada's High Commissioner, sees a serious threat of war in Europe. "Too many nations in Europe are firm believers in the doctrine of force," he said.

No Dum-Dum Bullets

Ethiopian Government Denies Report Spread By Italy

Geneva.—The Ethiopian government formally accused Italy of spreading reports concerning use of dum-dum bullets by Ethiopians to justify "future Italian outrages."

"The imperial Ethiopian government denies in the most categorical fashion falsehoods spread by the Italian press concerning use of dum-dum bullets," a statement sent to the League of Nations asserted. "It considers the report fabricated to justify future Italian outrages."

"Ethiopia manufactures no arms or ammunition. They are all brought in from outside and are subjected to rigorous inspection before they reach here."

Seven League Boots

Fritz Hanson's Footgear Brings Happiness To Children

Winnipeg.—Fritz Hanson's boots provided 375 unfortunate children with a merry Christmas.

Fritz wore the boots when he raced 75 yards for the final Winnipeg touch-down when the Manitobans defeated Hamilton Tigers 18-12 to win the Dominion rugby football championship.

And when Fritz learned 375 children would be made happy he had a merrier Christmas, too.

Christmas Messages

Greetings Exchanged Between King George And Lord Tweedsmuir

Ottawa.—Christmas messages were exchanged between King George and the Governor-General of Canada. Lord Tweedsmuir cabled to His Majesty at Sandringham, England, "My humble duty to your majesty's subjects in Canada. I send our respectful greetings for Christmas and the New Year."

Lord Tweedsmuir received the following reply in Ottawa: "I thank you sincerely for your message and much appreciate the good wishes of the people of Canada. I trust the new year will bring them happiness and prosperity." (Signed) George R.I.

The Dionne Christmas

Glass-Window Separates Parents From Quintuplets

Callander, Ont.—Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne said "Joyeux Noel" to their quintuplet daughters by waving at them and talking through the glass window panes of their nursery at Dafoe hospital.

While the quintuplets were hostesses to their five elder brothers and sisters and their parents at a Christmas party, the quintuplets were not allowed to have the family in their nursery because of the possibility that cold germs might be brought in.

The elder brothers and sisters and Mr. and Mrs. Dionne had dinner at the hospital but confined their greetings to the quintuplets to gestures and expressions the babies could hardly hear with a glass wall between them.

For all but the quintuplets there was "turkey and all the fixings," but the sisters, Amette, Cecile, Emilie, Marie and Yvonne stuck to their regular diet, with a special Christmas dessert of jelly topped with whipped cream.

Event of the day was the excursion of baby Cecile away from the nursery for parts unknown. At a moment when both nurses happened to be away, Cecile managed to open the door leading out to the corridor of the Dafoe hospital and was all set to explore the world beyond when she was overtaken.

More Tourist Traffic

October Showed 137,028 More Than Same Month Last Year

Ottawa.—Tourist traffic during October recorded a substantial increase over the corresponding month last year, according to a report issued by the department of trade and commerce.

Visitors admitted to Canada during October numbered 1,182,743, an increase of 137,028 over Oct. 1934. In the seven months ended Oct. 31 tourists totalled 11,600,820, compared with 10,363,180 in the corresponding period last year.

KING GEORGE DELIVERS SPECIAL EMPIRE MESSAGE

London.—In a Christmas message to the empire, the king voiced his warm appreciation of the "spontaneous offerings of loyalty and may I say of love" which the celebration of his silver jubilee had evoked.

Speaking from Sandringham House in Norfolk, His Majesty said he had noted, in addition to respect for the throne, "warm and generous remembrance of the man himself who, may God help him, has been placed upon it."

He spoke for five minutes in a clear, firm voice which was heard around the world in busy cities and lonely outposts of the empire.

Listeners in London noticed with great satisfaction His Majesty's voice was strong. He only coughed once.

It was evident he was deeply moved when he spoke of the throne and of the man who had been placed upon it.

The king and members of the royal family spent Christmas Day at Sandringham House. After a family luncheon party, His Majesty walked alone into the room where the British Broadcasting Company had installed a golden microphone for his use. The queen and the rest of the royal party heard the speech through loud-speakers.

The people of the United Kingdom celebrated Christmas amid rain or under cloudy skies as a sudden thaw ended a severe cold spell. The temperature began to climb Tuesday, dispelling snow and fog which had gripped the country for several days. It was mild in London and elsewhere.

The thaw led to traffic difficulties in many districts. Melting snow and icy roads made highways difficult to negotiate.

"It is good to think that our own family of peoples is at peace in itself and united in one desire to be at peace with other nations—a friend of all, an enemy of no one," said the king.

He began to speak at 3 p.m. (8 a.m. M.T.).

"May the spirit of goodwill and mutual helpfulness grow and spread," His Majesty said. "Then it will bring not only the blessing of peace but a solution of the economic troubles which still beset."

He closed by conveying Christmas greetings to all the people of the empire from himself and from the queen and their children and grandchildren.

OTTAWA PLANS FOR OPENING OF NEW PARLIAMENT

Ottawa.—Plans for the first session of the new parliament are going forward rapidly with the permanent staffs of the various departments working on estimates, reports and legislation, and the finance department busy with the budget. The opening date is expected to be Jan. 30.

A cabinet council is expected soon to place final approval on an exchange of notes with the Japanese government ending the six-month trade war between that country and Canada. First step will be agreement to abolish the prohibitive trade surtaxes raised by both countries last September when the two governments came to a deadlock over Japan's demand that special protective tariffs be abolished.

Announcement of the date parliament will assemble and the government's selection of speakers for the senate and house of commons are expected to be made early in the new year, if not before.

Canada's reciprocal trade treaty with United States will become effective Jan. 1 and detailed instructions are being issued now to customs collectors and other officials. The treaty will be presented to parliament for approval soon after the opening.

Was Pro-Japanese

Prominent Chinese Official In Shanghai Killed By Gunmen

Shanghai.—Tension mounted high in the international settlement following the assassination of Tang Yu-Jen, vice-president of Chinese railways, by gunmen in the French concession.

Tang was pro-Japanese. He was the former vice-minister of foreign affairs under Wang King-Wei, former premier of China and president of the executive Yuan, who was shot by an assassin Nov. 1 but survived. Wang himself is still in serious condition.

Foreigners feared that student outbreaks and other anti-Japanese activities would result.

Armed patrols of Japanese soldiers marched through the streets in the Hongkong area as a precaution against possible incidents arising from the killing.

Tang's chauffeur told the police of the killing. He said his master was killed by two men in Chinese dress who shot him seven times at close range.

Tang had just left his automobile to enter a house in the French concession.

The French police said the motive of the crime probably was political.

Italian Plane Captured

Ethiopian Troops Behead Pilot After Forcing Plane To Land

Addis Ababa.—Ethiopian troops captured an Italian aeroplane and beheaded its pilot after forcing the plane to land near Dagah Bur, according to reports reaching here. Two other members of the plane's crew escaped.

The plane was one of three scout craft which flew over the southeastern front to observe defence concentrations. It was brought down by the fire of Ethiopian snipers hidden in a trench, despatches said. Their bullets ripped the motor and forced the flyers to land.

Persistent reports received here said Ras Kassa and General Kassa Sebat had begun a new Ethiopian attack on the northern front near Makale. Troops under these leaders have been harassing the Italian tanks in northwestern Ethiopia near the Eritrean border.

Praises German Air Force

Outstanding In Europe Is Opinion Of Great War Ace

New York.—Col. Hedward V. Rickbacker, great war flying ace and now general manager of Eastern Air Lines, has returned from Europe with praise for German aviation.

"Germany is the outstanding European nation in military aviation," he said. "I think she appreciates, more than any other country, the value of the aeroplane in war."

Canadian Oil For Britain

Hullax.—The Dutch tanker Dordrecht, according to the newspaper, was to load lubricating oil and Imperial for England. It would be the first time in the memory of waterfront men here that all produced by the Imperial Oil Company there was sold for delivery in the Old Country.
